I once got spanked while being hung from the ceiling by a tightly laced lady. As if this was not cliché enough, I soon found myself landing on the floor with a heavy thump. I suppose the rope snapped mid-action, in a last ditch attempt to signal us both that this was turning into a pathetic ordeal. As it happened, that was indeed the high point of our elongated yet barren flirt.

Tapped out, I laid quiet on the floor, closing my eyes. A musing rabbit opened a tilted door, ushering me into a narrow flume, a water slide of sorts. As we skidded down, it tapered into a miniature groove. I was now a needle, cleaving the sound off a seventy eight. "Hugs and kisses every now and then", The Supremes sung me away.
